DAILY PORT MOVEMENT.

Subsequently holiday duliness settled over the market, and prices tended to decline, especially as below zero temperatures prevailed at many points northwest. The close was steady, January 31.39½ to 51.39½ t. 1.39½, and May $1.35@1.35½, with market as a whole ranging from %c off to ½c up, compared with Saturday's finish.

Oats showed comparative weakness. After opening unchanged to %c off, with January 70%c to 70%c, the market underwent a further sag.

Provisions trade was very slow.

A raily took place at the close, but not enough to overcome the preceding seiback.

Advices received Monday by the local dealers in mill feeds cause them to think that pending further instructions from the foed administration at Washington they must continue to handle products at fixed margins of profit. Since it was announced a few days ago that all restrictions had been removed from milling operations, which caused immediately a sensational jump in the price of wheat bran, amounting to about $17 a toh, the handlers of mill feeds have been ma quandary as to whether this would affect the prices which they could charge. They have been keeping the wires hot trying to find out something definite, for nome of them desired to make any change in their system of doing business unless it was entirely within the rules laid down for them some months ago. Until Monday afternoon bothing definite was received. rules laid down for them some months ago. Until Monday afternoon nothing definits was received.

While the dealers will be at a serious handican, because of the higher prices, they will continue to handle bran and other products at the same basis of profit over cost to them fixed some time ago, but the miners themselves are allowed to charge whatever prices they see fit.
